General Comments

Children at this facility spend the majority of their day outside. Two staff had taken a small group of children into the Forest School while the other waited inside for others to arrive. The wooded area has been set up with interests centres to allow the children to create, explore and be exposed to a variety of opportunities not only for physical activity but to compliment overall development of children. In the outdoor space gardens for vegetables, butterflies and a green house is evident.

Educators were engaged with children at all times, putting their needs first and responding to the children's changing interests, abilities and desires. Educators were attentive to the needs of the children and only positive child guidance was seen.

Licensing staff can recommend facility for licensing pending a current Fire and Health inspection.
