General Comments Upon licensing staff's arrival, children were finishing up snack before going to the park. The operator shared that the group had just been creating volcanoes using vinegar and baking soda in their sensory bin. Art was displayed that showed the planets and sun. The sun had different information that the children had shared about their knowledge of the sun. The operator has been working with the Early Learning Consultant in rearranging her space and is currently adding different shelving. At the park, children had access to a large assortment of pots, pan, shovels and scoops that the operator transported in the wagon. Children wore teal-colored vests to be easily identified among other children at the park. The operator also brought a portable speaker so the children could listen to music. Children enjoyed looking for worms and the operator remained engaged with the children. She asked them lots of questions and helped them in building a small habitat for the worm. The operator had a neighbor who had invited the children over to pick apples during the fall. The children got to pick apples before lunch and the operator continued to ask lots of questions to expand on the children's knowledge.
