General Comments

Licensing staff arrived at the licensed facility to conduct the annual license renewal inspection. When licensing staff arrived, children were still getting dropped off for the day.

The children engaged in free play activities before washing up and having morning snack. After morning snack, the operator set up a couple of invitations of play, one invitation consisted of a Valentine's Day loose parts activity and the second invitation was a painting activity.

As a "get up and go" activity, the children did some yoga before getting their outdoor clothing on and going outside to play. It was very cold out today so the operator took the children into the woods where they could get out of the wind. While in the woods, the children painted the snow using bottles filled with water and colour from soaking markers. The children also saw a woodpecker pecking on a tree and a chipmunk that climbed down a tree onto the snow-covered forest floor.

Once the children and the operator got back to the ELC Home they washed up for lunch and after lunch they washed up again before going down for a nap.

The operator guided children positively throughout the inspection. Licensing staff heard the operator use positive praise and encouraging words with the children.

The educator and child files were organized and complete with all of the required information according to the Early Childhood Services Act.

Licensing staff recommends the licensed facility for their license renewal.
