General Comments The QAM observed the After-School Program (ASP) during a community outing to a nearby playground, which the children and educators accessed on foot. Children were observed using the playground equipment and the splash pad located at the site. Educators reported that summer programming includes weekly library visits, STEAM activities, and visits to the local market on Fridays. Later in the visit, the QAM observed children during lunch. Educators were seated with the children and engaged in ongoing conversation throughout the meal. Educators asked children questions about their interests and facilitated a discussion regarding future program activities. Children were provided opportunities to share their ideas and participate in selecting future activities through a group voting process. A review of required documentation was completed. Fire drill records were current and available for review. The parent information board was posted and up to date. Child-to-staff ratios were observed to be in compliance at the time of the visit.
