General Comments

When I arrived, the children were sitting at the dinner table and painting a Christmas mug. There were only two children present today.

Shortly after, the children went outside for an hour then came back inside for lunch.

During lunch, Sara sat with the children and helped them. After lunch, the children wanted to play with tape and so Sara gave them adhesive tape, markers, papers and scissors. The children played with that until nap time.

Sara was engaged with the children throughout the inspection. Positive child guidance was heard such as gentle reminders and encouraging words.

Programing is planned and documented. There is evidence of the children's learning on the walls with learning stories. Sara also showed me the private Facebook page where she posts pictures for their activities for parents. Some of the children's art is also posted on the walls.

The children have access to different materials such as art supplies, books, blocks, a pretend kitchen, and puzzles. The outdoor space is also well equipped with a mud kitchen, playhouse, buckets, and other outdoor toys.

Everything is in compliance; I recommend for renewal.
