General Comments

The children were in the outdoor play space upon arrival. They were engaged in a variety of activities such playing on the slide, looking for worms, digging in the sandbox and throwing balls.
A white rock corner, with wooden roadways has been added to the outdoor play space.
A new toddler play sofa has been added to the quiet area.
Children's artwork is posted on the walls, and the operator is documenting using a whiteboard and private face group page.
A good routine has been established during lunch and preparing for nap time.
The operator is patient with the children, speaking at their level and gives re-direction when needed by offering choices for the children and advising them to use their words to help express their feelings.
