General Comments

It was snack time when I arrived. Some children had finished eating and were having some free play time while the others finished eating.

During the visit children were observed building towers with magnetic and wooden blocks, getting their hair done at the "hair salon", playing a fishing game, playing with cars, musical instruments and play doh.

While outside the children played and dug in the sandbox and made pies in the mud kitchen.

The educators were engaged with the children, sitting on the floor playing and reading books. Positive interactions were observed between the educators and the children.

The classrooms are clean and organized. There are sensory bins set up in each room that are autumn themed. They consist of beans, leaves, pieces of wood, small animals and a variety of other materials.

The classroom walls are posted with family photos, pictures of buildings in the community, children's artwork and learning stories.

The facility seemed to be running smoothly during the visit. The children seemed happy and familiar with the daily routine.
