General Comments
The infants were just waking up when I arrived. As they woke up, they played on the carpet with the educators. They looked the pictures on the family wall, and the educators would ask them questions about the pictures. Examples of this would be the educators asking, "Where is ----- (name of the pet)?" or "Where is ---- (name of child?). The children would point to the correct picture. Once all the children were awake it was time for snack. The snack of the day was nutri-grain bar and apple juice. The afterschool children went outside upon arrival and played for about 30-40 minutes before coming inside for snack. The snack of the day was a granola bar and apple juice. After snack they children had free play time where they played uno and skip-bo with the educators or played with the large building blocks, lego, cars, drew pictures and made paper airplanes. Some of the children sat in the cozy area and chatted with each other. The facility is clean, organized and there is a wide variety of the materials for the children to learn and explore with. During the visit everything seem to be running well.
