General Comments
Outdoor Observation QAM observed a group of children outdoors in the morning. The children were engaged in a variety of activities, including swinging on swings, skipping, passing balls, and exploring the mud kitchen. The outdoor environment was spacious, well-organized, and developmentally appropriate. A new play structure was in the process of being installed. Indoor Observation When QAM entered the indoor environment, the children in the second group were seated and eating lunch. Educators were sitting with the children, eating alongside them and engaging in conversation. Additional educators were preparing the room for rest time by setting up cots and organizing the space. The parent board was current, and the child-to-staff ratio was accurate and up to date.
